

The role of primary caregivers in child development

Caregivers play an important role in helping a child grow in this critical time by providing the right environment and activities, as well as observing development and helping where needed. These are some of the things primary caregivers need to provide to the child for optimal development...

Safe and nurturing environment

Good nutrition

Stimulate and help them learn

Stable, responsive relationships